

Sources for Fonts

The Latin font family that is used in this package is the very attractive, open-source, Linux Libertine Family. It is available here: Linux Libertine Family

The Inuktitut fonts that are used in this package are from the Ilisarniq family, developed for Nunavik. This is the most complete font family. I find that it has a heavier and more attractive look. It is available here:

Pigiarniq is a font commissioned by the government of Nunavut. It is available here:

Other syllabic fonts from the tiro site are:

Euphemia and Uqammaq

Google has also created the Noto syllabic font:

Noto Sans Aboriginal

Christopher Harvey [“Language Geek”] has developed an entire series of Native Amercain fonts. The Oki series comes in both an East and West series.

Oki East/Oki West

The following two sites list various syllabic fonts including some mentioned above.

NRC: Inuktitut Computing

Wasu Japan

Font Comparison

All fonts below have a nominal twelve point size. Both the syllabics and the name of the font are set -- except for Noto -- in the named font.

Only Ilisarniq is shown with all its variants. Other fonts have bold and italic, but none are as complete as Ilisarniq.
