

Chapter 12

The Reinhertzes of Kalvaria

Kalvaria

Kalvaria, located 26 miles northeast of Suwalki along the valley and terraced bank of the Šešupe river near the confluence of the Kiršna river (a tributary of the Neman river) in modern Lithuania, was one of the largest towns in Suwalki gubernia. In the 18th and first half of the 19th century its population exceeded that of any of the other towns by a wide margin. Although the railroad never got closer than the Shostakova station on the Suwalki to Oran (Varena) route during the previous century, the Warsaw to St. Petersburg highway traversed Kalvaria. From 1867 onwards Kalvaria became a county seat, with an international postal and telegraph office and an infamous prison. Industries included a copper mill and breweries.¹

The site was settled in the 17th century by forest guards from the Alytus (Olita) forest and was first called "Traby." The early growth of the town was under the aegis of Prince Michael Sapieha, who was listed as the owner of the town in 1697-1708 and in property transactions as late as 1721. A reference to the "town of Kalvaria" as an alternate name for the village of Traby is found as early as 1700, when Sapieha issued a document permitting the establishment of a brick producing plant and a church. In 1713, the widow of the chief forester of Nemunas forest formally established the town of Kalvaria. Although not yet granted city (Magdeburg) rights by the crown, the document establishing the town specified details of land and residential arrangements and legal relationships with the management of the estate; it also created a magistrate and courts. The town first received Magdeburg Rights from August II (prior to 1733), and these were reconfirmed by Stanislaw Augustus in 1791. The town charter also gave Kalvaria a flag: the emblem was a tower on one half and a "looking eye" on the other.²

There were three churches in Kalvaria. The Catholic church, originally built of wood, was rebuilt in 1840 as a large brick and stone edifice (and doubled in size in 1903). There was an Evangelist church as well, and a Russian Orthodox church with walls and a tower, built in 1856 and rebuilt around 1904. There were a number of public buildings because of Kalvaria's status as a district capital. One was the infamous prison, surrounded by a brick wall, which the Germans built during the New East Prussian period (1795-1807). The district court for Suwalki gubernia functioned here until 1874. There was a large hospital and clinic, and several military barracks. There were two interdenominational schools (one for girls), plus a Jewish school.³

The derivation of the name of Kalvaria has been subject to conflicting interpretation. According to Rittenberg, Polujanski stated that "Kalvaria" means "Mountain of the Criminals" in Lithuanian. It is true that the regional jail was in Kalvaria, but in fact the word has no such meaning in Lithuanian. Most scholars believe that the source is the same as that for many other towns in Poland and Galicia named Kalvaria: the mountain of Kalvaria, the place of suffering where the messiah was crucified according to the Catholic faith. The cross is revealed to the saints of the Church in many places, and it is quite likely that such a revelation at the original wood church in Traby was the source of the name for the town.⁴

According to a description of Kalvaria by Polujanski, Jews were already living in the town when it was the village of Traby. At that time they were engaged in the weaving trade ("tkacz" in Polish), and thus one street was called "Tkacka" street. There was certainly an established Jewish community by 1714, when Reb Aharon Broda was listed as a "long time rabbi of Kalvaria."⁵ The previous year, the elder spokesman of the community, Pinchas son of Isaak, was urged to request privileges and tax relief for the community from King Augustus II. The result was the granting of various rights to engage in trade, crafts, tailoring, furs, lacemaking, tinsmithing and other occupations without being required to join the local guilds. They were permitted to build a synagogue - but no higher than the church - and to create a cemetery (but they could not bury their dead on Catholic holidays). Disputes between the Jews and Christians were to be referred to the court of the estate, and the decision could then be appealed to the Kings Court. Disputes between the Jews themselves were to be decided by the Jewish court. The Jews were also freed from summonses to the estate court on the Sabbath, Jewish holidays, and market days.⁶

FROM SUWALKI TO ST. IGNACE

In 1737, a German traveler from Gumbinen passing through Kalvaria enroute to Grodno noted the existence of a wooden synagogue, and of a large number of Jewish residents. Many of the Jews, he reported, appeared to be "wealthy and lived in smartly appointed homes. I had dinner with one such rich Jew."⁷ In this same year, some Jews were found living in the rural settlements around Kalvaria, when an inventory of tax payees in the Kalvaria forestry district found the Jew "Jankelis" (Yankel) owning a parcel of land free of taxes near the inn he leased in Akmenynu village.⁸

By 1766 there were already 1,055 Jews in Kalvaria, the second largest Jewish population reported in the towns of the Suwalki area in that census.⁹ In the 1790 census, although the listed Jewish population made Kalvaria one of the two largest centers of Jewish population in Traki district, the population appears to have declined in the town itself to 658 Jews, primarily living near the marketplace and on streets in the center of the town.¹⁰ However, it appears that the Jews kept a separate list from which they extracted selected information provided to the civil authorities taking the census,¹¹ and thus may have withheld a complete count. In addition, there were significant numbers of Jews living on the residential settlements (farms and estates) surrounding the town, and in nearby villages, that would have boosted this total. It is known, for instance, that there were 73 adult Jewish tenant farmers and at least 57 other Jews in such settlements in the Kalvaria eldership at this time.¹²

At the close of the eighteenth century, when the Prussians invaded, Jews formed the majority of the residents, and were even represented on the elected magistrate. A new synagogue, built between 1795 and 1803 to replace the older wooden building that had been verging on collapse, is described as it looked 100 years later:

"The stones were expensive and big - 2.5 cubits¹³ thick. Inside, centered around the pulpit, were four massive columns holding up 9 arches. In 1809 a wooden holy ark was built, engraved with lions, flowers and buds, and covered with gold. At the front of the ark, reflecting the Prussian influence of the time, was an engraved eagle (symbol of Prussia) suspended on a rope from a beam. It's already been a few years since the rope disintegrated and the eagle fell (fortunately, no one was in the synagogue when this happened); it wasn't put back..

The ark stands on two wooden lions. The craftsman put two flutes into their mouths and concealed two leather bellows under the floor of the pulpit. When anyone stepped on the floor the bellows would push wind into the flutes and an awe-inspiring noise would be heard. But because it is forbidden to play music on Shabbat and Yontif, and so as not to scare anyone, the flutes were taken out of the lions and the bellows were sold.

The walls are decorated by an artisan in vermilion - lions, deer, sheep, cattle, every kind of plant and growing thing, and many kinds of birds. One of the leaders and thinkers of our community, Yakov ben Solomon (Jacob son of Solomon, dec. 1839), who was talented at drawing, painted on the Eastern wall a house with a yard and a flag on the roof. He painted his initials, thus telling later generations of his generosity to the synagogue. He also made a floor out of the kind of tree (Eichen) which doesn't disintegrate. In 1820, he contributed a huge Menorah made out of shining silver with 60 branches. On top of it was written: 'Forgive the sins of your slave Jacob of this community, 1829.' The menorah is tied above the pulpit by two thick beams; a few years ago, the structure holding the beams weakened and the menorah came crashing down. It was just before Minchah (afternoon prayer), so no one was there; it was repaired and hung in a stronger fashion than before.

There are two women's sections, on the north and south sides; over the western entrance was later built a large women's section, and underneath, on either side of the entrance, are two study rooms. One is for the Psalm Society and the other is for the Burial Society, also used as a community room.

FROM SUWALKI TO ST. IGNACE

In the courtyard of the synagogue there used to be an old stone Beis Midrash (study hall), too small to hold all the congregants and about to collapse from age. In 1865 a strong brick Beis Medrash was built through the generosity of Sarah Braches, wife of Ezriel Sobelevitch, who died without sons in Koëningsberg. The building was wide and spacious for study and prayer. On the right (of the courtyard) as you come in is the treasury (for debts and lending) of the Charitable Deeds Society, and on the left, the chamber of the Bridal Welcoming Society. Underneath the Beis Medrash are 3 rooms to teach Torah to the sons of the poor."¹⁴

The 1800 census reported a total population of 2886 individuals in Kalvaria, of whom 1782 were Jews. Nonetheless, during the 19th century, Kalvaria was one of the most intensively Jewish cities of the area: in 1856, 6508 of the 8088 citizens were reported as Jewish. The Poles called the town "Jewish Kalvaria". In 1897, 7930 of the 10,027 population was listed as Jewish.¹⁵

The Reinhertzes

This chapter presents what we know of the Reinhertz family, which originated in Kalvaria. Unfortunately, vital records from Kalvaria are missing from the archives in both Poland and Lithuania. Hence, information on early generations can only be obtained from secondary sources in archival records, including vital records in other towns when members of the Reinhertz family showed up to marry someone or live there; tax lists; and economic records. Other sources outside of the archives include subscription and donor lists and early immigration records.

The limited information on the Reinhertz family of Kalvaria is unfortunate, because the few available records suggest that this was an extensive family, and one with considerable "yichus." An 1865 list of members of the synagogue in Kalvaria includes ten Reinhertz men, most of whom were probably heads of families there: Fajtel, Hirsch, Leib, Jowel, Zacharias, Tobias, Shmuel, Meier, Abel and Dovid.¹⁶ Most, but not all of these, are identified in the family trees in this book, but often with little or no information on descendants. At the same time, other Reinhertz family heads from Kalvaria do not show up on the synagogue list, probably because they were living elsewhere by 1865. This includes Notel Hertz (Nathaniel Harold in the United States) who was in Suwalki; his cousin Abel Zacharias, who was living in Suwalki in the 1830's (or his children); Leyzer, who was married in 1832 in Mariampole; or Yankel, the first known Reinhertz to emigrate to the United States.

A scattering of references to Reinhertzes from Kalvaria found in indexes to lists of ships bound for the United States, or in early records in this country, shows not only the extent of potential unknown branches of this family, but also that there are presumably numerous unfound descendants living today in this country. Not a single one of these immigrants or their descendants has been found subsequent to their arrival here. Perhaps they changed their name, or moved to a small town in a state beyond the major urban areas, or had no children or only daughters. They include

On the other hand, there are Reinhertz branches in the United States that are not from Kalvaria. One is the Boston branch, children of Abraham Zalman Reinherz of Baklerove (Bakalarzewo), a town in Suwalki gubernia. This family was originally "Rubinski" in the vital records in Poland and changed the name to Reinherz following the lead of the first to emigrate, Isaac Boruch Reinherz. There appears to be no connection at all to the Kalvaria Reinhertzes. There were also Reinherz families in other towns in Poland, some of whom came to the United States, as well as Reinherz families in Germany.

Fortunately, Nathaniel (Notel-Hertz, the father of Rachel Reinhertz who married Samuel Rosenthal, and of her sister Annie, who married William Saulson), married an Epstein from Suwalki and lived there from 1838 until he emigrated to the United States in 1882. From the information on his marriage record, preserved in the Suwalki regional branch of the Polish State Archives and microfilmed by the Family History Library (Mormons) it was possible to link him to the Reinhertzes in Kalvaria. Much of the information about the Reinhertz family in this book is on the descendants of Nathaniel Harold. The "outline descendant" tree that follows shows basic information on all his descendants, making it easy to see how they are related to each other (see How to Read the Charts and Reports following the Introduction). Detailed information on the descendants of his two daughters mentioned above will be found in chapters 7 and 8, while the details on the Savlans - descended from a third daughter - and on the descendants of his son Izrael are found in this chapter.

The descendants of Meyer Reinhertz of Kalvaria, who took the name Reinhardt in the United States, are also included in this book. The discovery of this branch occurred only in the last year of the preparation of this project, when a search of the Ellis Island ship arrival database newly posted on the Internet revealed the arrival in 1909 of a Chaia Reinhertz from Kalvaria going to visit her son Abraham Reinhertz at an address on Myrtle Avenue in Brooklyn. City directories showed, not Abraham Reinhertz at that address, which was a business, but Abraham, Sam and Myron Reinhardt. Among the many Reinhardt vital records in the New York City Municipal Archives were the marriages of Abraham and Sam, the latter citing his birthplace as Kalvaria. They could not be found in the 1910 or 1920 New York census, but turned up in 1920 in New Jersey. Armed with the names of their children, a search was made of the Social Security Death Index and selected Internet sites, where an obituary for Warren Reinhardt was found that led in turn to Evelyn Rudenstein; she provided enough information to look for Norman Mass on the Martindale lawyer finder site. In this manner the descendants of this branch were discovered and this part of the family tree put together. None of the descendants had retained the information on their ancestral origins or the original family name.

The third major branch included here are the Reinhertzes of San Francisco. No documentation has been found that can link this line with certainty to the Kalvaria Reinhertz family, but the confluence of known origins, patronymics and marriages are strongly suggestive. The census and vital records all show either Russia or Poland as the origin, a pattern normally found amongst Jews from Russian Poland, and that immediately focuses on the Suwalki area and nearby provinces. Isaac, the progenitor of this branch, carries a given name that is found in the Kalvaria family, and he has a son Nathaniel which is a key name in the Kalvaria Reinhertz family. Furthermore, Isaac's first wife was a Rosenthal. Since Isaac's father is unknown, he has been "assigned" to a likely person in order to facilitate inclusion here.

Rabbinical Ancestry

p, 14 & 20

The most prominent member of the Kalvaria Reinhertz family was rabbi Nathan Nate Reinhertz (1792-1867), not the same person as Nathaniel Harold (Notel Hertz in Poland), but almost certainly named after the same ancestor. Nata Reinhertz is referenced in several published sources on Kalvaria, and is listed in a subscription list from a book published in 1841 as "Ha Rav Av Bet Din Natan-Nate," which means that he held a position as head of the rabbinical court in Kalvaria during that period.¹⁷ The Jewish Encyclopedia article on Kalvaria mentions Rabbi Nata Reinhertz, repeating Rittenberg's statement in a 1904 article that Reinhertz was a descendant of Joel Sirkes.¹⁸ Rittenberg was a native of Kalvaria; the article is a ten page description of the Jewish community of Kalvaria. In a list of lay people of importance (distinguished torah interpreters, authors, etc.) on page 38 Rittenberg describes Rabbi Nate Reinhertz as a descendant of "the BaH." Nate, says Rittenberg, was a distinguished scholar who knew a number of languages and wrote a commentary on the Talmud Yerushalmi that was not printed. The article also says that Nate had a brother Tsvi (Hirsch) who was skilled in astronomy, and made a perpetual calendar. Further on it mentions that Nate's son Shmuel wrote for a Yiddish paper of the time.

The BaH was Joel Sirkes, born 1561, probably in Lublin, the son of Samuel ben Moses Segal Jaffe

FROM SUWALKI TO ST. IGNACE

(note that Nate Reinhertz had a son and a grandson named Yoel). Sirkes took his surname from his mother's first name Sarah (Sirke is a Yiddish diminutive of Sora). He was rabbi in various cities and finally in Cracow (Krakau) for at least 20 years until his death in 1640. He was also Av Bet Din of Krakow (head of the rabbinical court), in which capacity he was "addressed with great reverence and praise" by the major rabbinic personalities of that era who consulted him, including Yom Tov Lipman Heller and Judah Loew of Prague (the MaHaRal of Prague).¹⁹

Sirkes' place in Jewish history was assured by his most famous published work, a commentary on the "Arba Turim" that was entitled Bayit Hadash (the new house), known in abbreviated form as the "BaH" (pronounced Bach). It is common practice in Jewish scholarship to refer to authors of major rabbinical works by the abbreviated titles of their works, or their rabbinical titles - hence Sirkes is often referred to in scholarly works simply as the "BaH," not by his name. The Arba Turim (four rows) by Jacob ben Asher (1269-1343) was basically a handbook of Jewish law based on the Talmud, divided into four sections which Sirkes updated and elucidated through his own interpretations, and incorporation of other commentaries on the work.

There is no authoritative work on the descendants of the BaCH. Portions of his family tree show up in works that deal with other important rabbinical families where there was a marriage linking those families with a descendant of the BaCH, notably in Neil Rosenstein's The Unbroken Chain. Information is also contained in other works by Dembitzer, Friedman, Kahane, and Zunz, Kagan and Sudarsky.²⁰ From these and other sources, it was possible to put together a partial descendant tree for the BaCH (selected parts of this tree can be found on Chart 12-1). However, as is typical in published works on rabbinical lines, if a descendant had no sons who held rabbinic posts or published scholarly works, or had no daughters who married someone with such credentials, that descendant will be listed with no information on children.

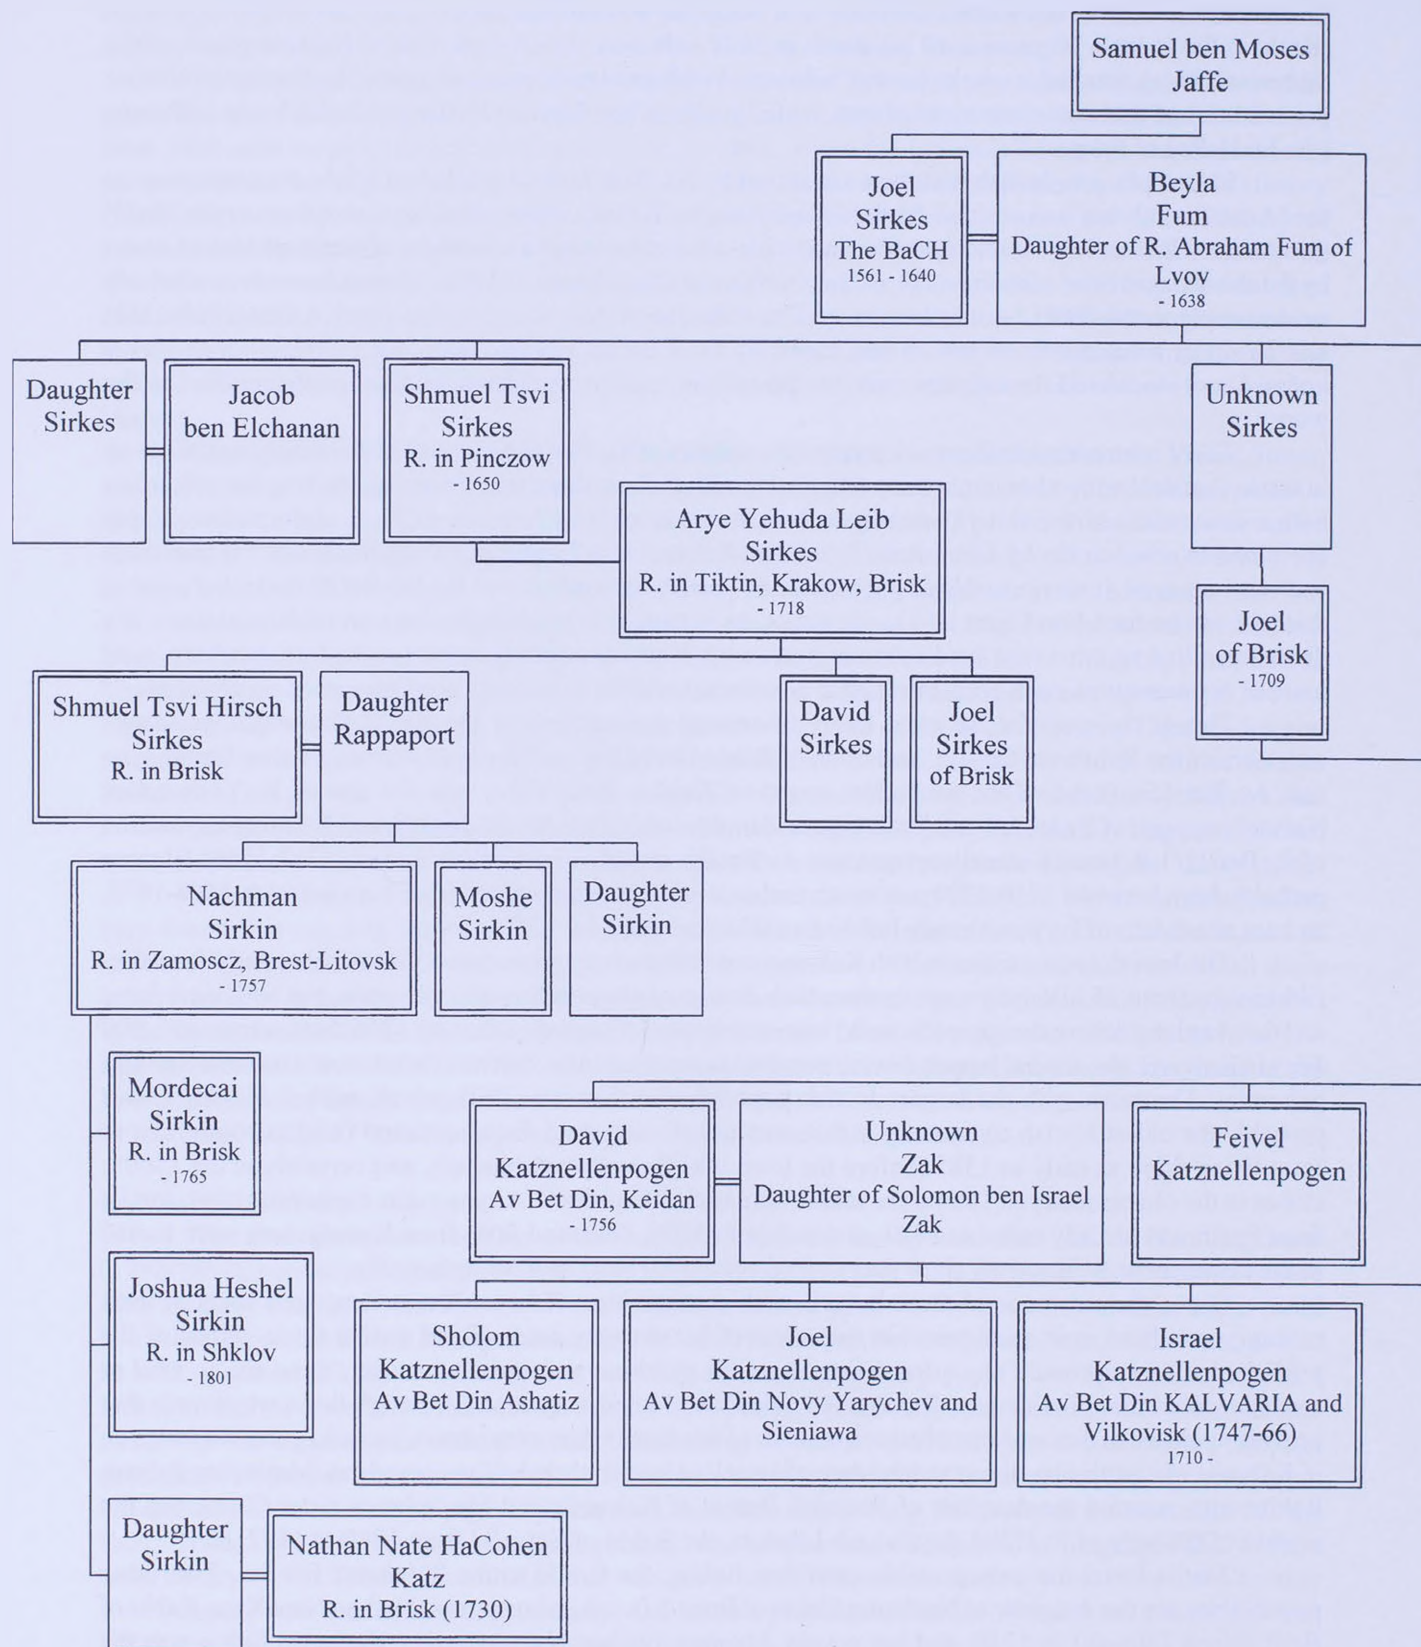

This is the case for the most likely of several descendants of the BaCH that might qualify as ancestors of the Reinhertz family: Israel, son of Rabbi David Katznellenpogen. Israel's father David, who was Av Bet Din (head of the rabbinical court) of Keidan from 1714, was the son of R. Yechezkiel Katsnellenpogen of Raseiniai and Esther, granddaughter of Joel of Brisk. Joel (dec. 1709) was a grandson of the BaCH.²¹ R. Israel Katznellenpogen was Av Bet Din in Kalvaria and Wilkowiszk (1747-1766). He was probably born between 1710-1720; not much earlier, since his grandparents were born between 1668-1672, and not much later if he was already head of a rabbinical court by 1747.

The Jewish communities in both Kalvaria and Wilkowiszk (pronounced Vilkovishk, now Vilkaviskis, Lithuania), about 25 kilometers apart, were both district capitals in Suwalki gubernia, but both were large and thriving long before the city of Suwalki was established. As noted earlier, by 1766 there were over 1,000 Jews in Kalvaria, the second largest Jewish population reported in the towns of what would become Suwalki gubernia. The town with the largest Jewish population at that time, Wilkowiszk, with 1,555 Jews, was probably the oldest Jewish community in that area as well; some old documents and Pinkhas books refer to Jews living there as early as 1385 (before the town was formally established), and certainly in the 1500's; stones in the old cemetery in 1934 were said to date back 400 years.²² A synagogue containing torah scrolls from Spain was already noted in 1623, and as late as 1700, deceased Jews from Koenigsberg were buried in the cemetery at Wilkowiszk since they lacked cemetery rights in Koenigsberg.²³

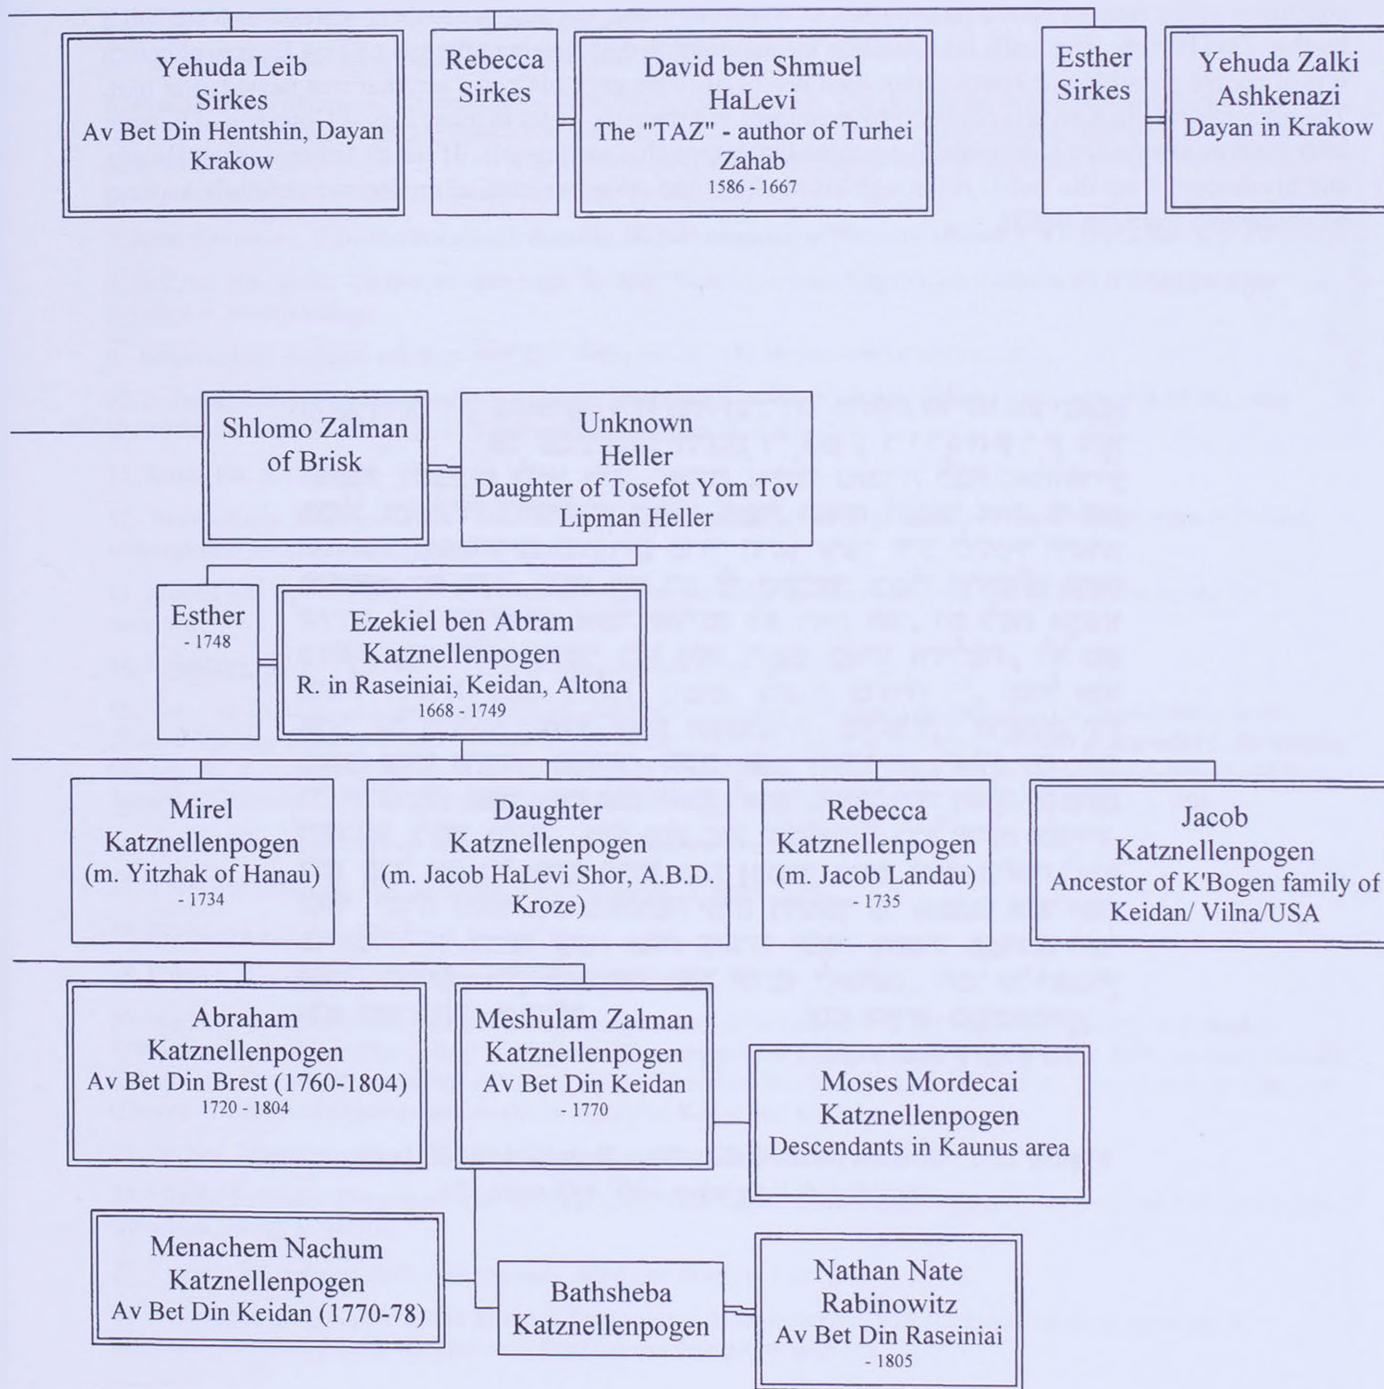

Given the existence of these large Jewish communities, if Israel Katznellenpogen spent at least twenty years there, it is quite possible that some of his progeny married and settled there. None of the published sources provide any information about his children, and as stated earlier, there are no vital or census records that provide any documented evidence of his descendants, although there are records that provide evidence of descendants of other branches of this family that were later in Suwalki gubernia and even in Kalvaria - in particular, the grandchildren of Israel's niece Bathsheba (one grandson, Meshulam Zalman Rabinowitz, married the daughter of Jeremiah Ratner of Kalvaria, and Meshulam's sister Chana was the mother of the wife of R. Hillel Aryeh Leib Libshitz, the Rabbi of Suwalki from 1880 to 1892).²⁴

Nor is Israel the only possible candidate linking the BaCH to the Reinhertz family. Two other possibilities are the daughter of Nachman Sirkin of Brest-Litovsk, who married Nathan Nate Katz, Rabbi of Brisk (Brest Litovsk) in 1730; and her cousin Abraham Nathan Nate Meisels. Nachman Sirkin was the grandson of Arye Yehudah Leib Sirkes (dec. 1718), a rabbi in Tiktin (Tykocin, now in Bialystok district),

Chart 12-1: Selected Descendants of Joel Sirkes ("The BaCH")

Krakow and Brisk. Arye was the son of Shmuel Tsvi Hirsch Sirkes, son of the BaCH. Only one daughter is shown in published literature as the offspring of the marriage of Nachman Sirkin's daughter to Nathan Nate Katz, and similarly only one daughter is shown for Abraham Nathan Nate Meisels, whose mother was the sister of Nachman Sirkin. Given the geographic mobility of many of the persons holding rabbinic posts in the 18th century, it is also possible that the link may be less obviously tied to either a namesake or to someone living near Kalvaria. For example, Israel Katznelnepogen's father David was Av Bet Din in Keidan (Keidainiai, Lithuania), 68 miles from Kalvaria, but David's father Yechezkiel was rabbi in Altona, Germany. Thus some other descendant line of the BaCH last placed in Prague, or Krakow in the 18th century might well have had an unknown son or granddaughter who ended up back in Kalvaria.

It should also be noted that although Nathan Nate Reinhertz was said to be a descendant of the BaCH, that does not mean that all the Reinhertzes are descended from the BaCH. Indeed, there is some confusion about Nathan Nate's relationship to Nathaniel's line, because Rittenberg states that Nate had a brother Tsvi Hirsch. That calls into question the assumption that Nate was the son of Tsvi Hirsch, although it is of course possible that Nate's father died before his wife gave birth to a son that was named after him. The early tax lists in Kalvaria contain few surnames, but the only Notel in those lists is Notel son of Hirsch; later sources always list Nate with his surname but without his patronymic. If Nate's father was not Hirsch, and his descent from the BaCH is through his mother, than other branches of the Reinhertz family may not be descended from the BaCH.

Rittenberg states that Stanislaw Augustus gave Kalvaria Magdeburg rights in 1673, but this is not possible as Stanislaw Aug. did not reign until 1764-1795. Based on the information in Slownik Geogr. and in Reitelaitis, it is clear that Rittenberg is in error. Even if Augustus II gave Magdeburg rights to Kalvaria, it could not have been before 1697; and according to Reitelaitis, it would have been after 1713 but before 1733.

One wonders how there could otherwise have been a "longtime Rabbi" in 1714. - + 6 iv. Faytel Reinhertz, born Abt. 1795.
- + 7 v. Abel Zacharias Reinhertz, born 1814.

Generation No. 3

4. Leyzer³ Reinhertz (Hirsch², Father¹ Unknown) was born Abt. 1785 in Kalvaria, Suwalki gubernia (now Lithuania). He married Ryva, daughter of Zacharias.

Notes for Leyzer Reinhertz:

Leyzer was still living in 1838, when he is listed as accompanying his son Notel Hertz (Nathaniel Harold) at Notel's marriage in Suwalki. Leyzer's occupation at that time is listed as "innkeeper of homemade liquors."

More About Leyzer Reinhertz:

Occupation: Innkeeper

Children of Leyzer Reinhertz and Ryva are:

- 8 i. Zacharias⁴ Reinhertz, born 1803 in Kalvaria, Suwalki gubernia (now Lithuania); died September 17, 1873 in Kalvaria, Suwalki gubernia (now Lithuania)². He married Feyga.

Notes for Zacharias Reinhertz:

Zacharias received an obituary in HaMagid (Sept. 17, 1873 #37 p. 339). It was said he had ceased engaging in business 50 years earlier to devote his time to charity and community work. He was a leading benefactor in the town, one whom people came to in times of hunger and distress. During years of famine, he was the first to obtain funds to save many people from starvation. According to his son's marriage record, he was a shopkeeper in Kalvaria. Kagan (in "Yiddische Shtet...in Lite" p. 443) says that Zacharias was one of the heads of the Kehilah in Kalvaria.

FROM SUWALKI TO ST. IGNACE

Two sons are shown in this book for Zacharias: Tobias and Meier.

1. TOBIAS REINHERTZ was born in 1821. He shows up in an 1839 marriage record in Rajgrad, Lomze gubernia, Poland just west of Suwalki gubernia. Tobias appears to have lived in Kalvaria after his marriage. There are no records for births of children to him in Rajgrad, and he shows up on two lists in Kalvaria: the synagogue member list of 1865, and the list of contributors to the Persian Jewry relief fund published in "HaMagid" in 1872. He is presumed to be the father of Isaac Reinhertz, progenitor of the San Francisco Reinhertz family detailed later in this chapter.

2. MEIER REINHERTZ was born much later, in 1844. He is the presumed ancestor of the Reinhardt family that settled in New York and New Jersey, detailed later in this chapter. There is no documentation to show who Meyer's parents were, but a reasonable assumption is that he was a younger son of Zacharias, for the following reasons:

-Meyer's son Samuel (originally Zacharias, as his daughter Evelyn notes), would have been named for Meyer's father, who died a few years previously.

-Zacharias' brother Nathaniel Harold had a son Meier, born about the same time as this Meyer.

-We know that Meyer's son Samuel was born in Kalvaria. He says so on his marriage record, and his mother (with the surname Reinhertz) came from there to visit him in 1909).

-It was not at all unusual in the first part of the nineteenth century for siblings to be born 20 - 30 years apart. If vital records were available for Kalvaria, they would no doubt show births of a number of other children in the intervening years. Unfortunately, in the absence of such records, nothing is known about who these children might have been or who or where their descendants were.

Alternatively, Meyer could have been a grandson of Zacharias, but probably not as a son of Tobias Hirsch, since Tobias was still living in 1865 (he is on the synagogue lists), and Meyer's son Hirsch was born in 1867. It is of course also possible that Meyer descends from another branch of the Reinhertz family, but the patronymics in this branch clearly point to his belonging here.

More About Zacharias Reinhertz:

Occupation: Shopkeeper

- 9 ii. David Reinhertz, born Bet. 1800 - 1818 in Kalvaria, Suwalki gubernia (now Lithuania).

Notes for David Reinhertz:

David's parentage is unknown; none of the four sources in which he is mentioned reveal who his father was. Kagan, in "Yiddische Shtetlach..." states that David Reinhertz was a candidate for the Kalvaria County Council in 1862, and that his representatives (proxies) were Bemash Solomon and Zacharias Reinhertz (the latter one of the heads of the Kehilah who died in 1873). It has therefore been assumed in this family history that David was a brother of Zacharias. David also shows up in subscription lists in 1836 and 1841, in the list of Kalvaria synagogue members dating from 1865, and as a major contributor (2 rubels) in the lists published in "HaMagid" in 1872 of donors from Kalvaria to the fund for relief of Persian Jewry. Hence he would have been born no later than about 1818, and probably not much earlier than 1800.

FROM SUWALKI TO ST. IGNACE

- 10 iii. Nathaniel Harold Reinhertz, born 1820 in Kalvaria, Suwalki gubernia (now Lithuania)³; died December 01, 1888 in Petoskey, Michigan. He married Rebecca Epstein⁴ June 26, 1838 in Suwalki, Poland⁵; born 1820 in Suwalki, Poland⁶; died March 28, 1883 in Petoskey, Michigan.

Notes for Nathaniel Harold Reinhertz:

In Suwalki, where he settled after his marriage, he was known as "Notel" and is generally listed in birth records for his children as a merchant/ trader (handlarz). During part of this time he was living not in Suwalki itself but in the village of Sudziszki in the district of Mackow, about ten miles southeast of Kalvaria (see the birth records for his children Annie and Izrael). Nathan (as his name appears in 1884 both on his Declaration of Intent and the State Census) or Nathaniel was living in England prior to his coming to the United States, according to Shirley Mersky who has a photograph of him in England. Nathaniel and his descendants are found in various documents and directories in the United States as either Reinhertz or Reinhartz. This same variability of the surname also shows up in newspaper articles. The name in Suwalki gubernia was consistently Reinhertz.

Nathaniel is known to have had at least ten children. His oldest son, Meier, was born in 1840 and died at the age of 19. A daughter Tonia died in 1846 as an infant. Of the remaining eight children, descendants are known for four:

-RACHEL (1843-1889) was the first wife of Samuel son of Leib Rosenthal. They emigrated to the United States soon after their marriage in Suwalki and settled in Petoskey, Michigan. Their eldest daughter Jenny married Moses Blumrosen; Bertha Blumrosen, the wife of Saul Saulson and mother of Shirley Mersky, was a daughter of Jenny and Moses. COMPLETE INFORMATION ON RACHEL AND SAMUEL AND THEIR DESCENDANTS CAN BE FOUND IN CHAPTER 8 (AND, FOR THE SAULSONS, IN CHAPTER 7).

-ANNIE (1851-1930) married William Saulson, son of Saul Rosenthal who was a first cousin to Samuel. She and William were married in Petoskey and lived in Michigan. INFORMATION ABOUT ANNIE AND WILLIAM AND THEIR DESCENDANTS CAN BE FOUND IN CHAPTER 7.

-ISRAEL (1848-1909) married Lena Roterozen, and lived in Michigan. He and his descendants can be found later in this chapter.

-MARY (1863-1928) married Max Savlan and settled in Cleveland, Ohio. Information about her and the Savlan descendants can be found in this chapter.

Nathaniel had four other children about whom nothing is known beyond the records of their births in Suwalki: Zacharias (born Dec. 1841, recorded 1842 as birth #7), Faytel (1854 birth #65), Leib (1856 birth #181) and Elias (1859 birth #169). It is possible that they all died young, but there are no death records for them. It is more likely that one or more of them married and had descendants, but where they lived and what name they went by is unknown.

More About Nathaniel Harold Reinhertz:

Burial: Beth Olam cemetery, Detroit

Hebrew name: Notel Hertz ben Eliezer

Immigration: 1882, To United States⁷

Naturalization: April 28, 1884, Declaration of Intent in Petoskey (he died before he could finalize the naturalization)

Residence: Bet. 1884 - 1888, Petoskey, Michigan

Notes for Rebecca Epstein:

Rebecca's mother, Chai-Sora nee Krakowski, was the sister of Ryfka Krakowski who married Moses Blumrosen, ancestor of the Blumrosen family (see the Blumrosen family tree). Her brother Moshe was Rosh Kahal (head of the Jewish community) in Suwalki in the 1850's and 1860's.

More About Rebecca Epstein:

Burial: Beth Olam cemetery, Detroit

Hebrew name: Rifka bas Moshe

5. Nathan Nate³ Reinhertz (Hirsch², Father¹ Unknown) was born 1792, and died November 20, 1867 in Kalvaria, Suwalki gubernia (now Lithuania).

Notes for Nathan Nate Reinhertz:

Nathan Reinhertz received an obituary in HaMagid, in which it states he was Ab Bet Din (head of the rabbinical court in Kalvaria) in 1841. He was described as "one of the last of the old school who knew and could appreciate both torah and secular studies." He wrote an unpublished commentary on the Talmud Yerushalmi, and was said to be fluent in German, Polish, French and Hebrew. He was described as "courteous and kind to all he met." (HaMagid #45, Nov. 20, 1867, p.356).

Nathan Nate Reinhertz is also mentioned by Rittenberg, who says Reinhertz was a descendant of the BACH. However, Rittenberg states that Nathan had a brother Hirsch. There is some confusion about the relationships here; but the only Nathan (Notel) found in the tax lists in Kalvaria in the 1820's is Notel son of Hirsch. It is possible that Hirsch Reinhertz was the son of Izrael, and that Nathan was the son of Izrael's brother Yoel.

Children of Nathan Nate Reinhertz are:

- 11 i. Solomon Reinitz⁴ Homberg, born Abt. 1810.

Notes for Solomon Reinitz Homberg:

It is not certain if Solomon Homberg was a son of Nathan Nate Reinhertz, but the evidence is suggestive. He was born in either 1811 (according to the 1881 British Census) or 1807 (according to his tombstone) in the town of Lubowa (Lubovie, near Kalvaria), and was said to have held a rabbinical post in Kalvaria. His tombstone says his father was Nathan Nate, and in the 1870's he allegedly was invited to New York to serve as the rabbi for the Kalvaria Schul. He returned to England after a year or two (city directories in New York do not show his presence) and died in Sheffield, where his daughter was living. His granddaughter refers to him as Solomon "Reinitz" Homberg in her memoirs, and it is the use of this name - combined with his parentage, dates and association with Kalvaria - that implies he might be a son of Nathan Nate Reinhertz. No documentation, however, has yet been found that proves or disproves this hypothesis.

Solomon had several daughters, one of whom married Moses Lavner and moved to New York. One of their five children married Joseph Breakstone, of the Breakstone dairy company fame. Another daughter married Lewis Agar, and a descendant of this marriage, Marc Rosenholz in Albany, New York has researched these families. Solomon also was said to have had a sister Rebecca who married Samuel Wigramski in Lubovie. Rebecca died in 1905 in Sheffield, England; several of her children emigrated to the United States. Marc Rosenholz, and Victor Stone in England, have information on some of these descendents.

- 12 ii. Yoel Mordecai Reinhertz, born November 15, 1820 in Kalvaria, Suwalki Gubernia (now Lithuania)⁸; died April 06, 1847 in Kalvaria, Suwalki Gubernia (now Lithuania)⁹.

Notes for Yoel Mordecai Reinhertz:

This would appear to be the Yoel Mordecai Reinhertz who published a book of the Songs of Esther titled "HaMeasef" mentioned in Friedberg's "Bet Eked Sepharim" (a bibliographical lexicon with an index of authors). A copy of the book, published in Warsaw in 1866 is located in the Jewish Theological Seminary library. It contains verses and a letter to, or by his brother Yehuda Leib, which identifies their father, includes information about Yoel's birth and death dates and burial location, about his two brothers, and about the Weinstein marriage.

More About Yoel Mordecai Reinhertz:

Burial: Kalvaria cemetery¹⁰

- 13 iii. Yehuda Leib Reinhertz.

Notes for Yehuda Leib Reinhertz:

Yehuda Leib had at least one son whose existence is known from a birth record found in Bialystok in 1884 (female birth #73). In that year a daughter "Margarita" (Miriam on the Hebrew side of the ledger) is born in Bialystok to Maks Reinhertz of Kalvaria (Yoel Mordecai ben Yehuda Leib) and his wife Bertha Jacob. Yoel Mordecai was probably born around 1850, and named for his uncle who had died in 1847. However, there are no other records in Bialystok for him or for other children born to him. He may have returned to Bialystok or emigrated elsewhere.

- 14 iv. Shmuel Tsvi Reinhertz. He married Unknown Weinstein; born in Kaunas, Lithuania¹¹.

Notes for Shmuel Tsvi Reinhertz:

Nathan's son Shmuel is mentioned both in Kagan's book and by Rittenberg as an author. Kagan ("Yiddische Shtet...in Lite" p. 443) says that Shmuel published a book in German titled "Die Grenetzbate" but gives no bibliographical reference. His full name is given in "HaMeasef" as Shmuel Tsvi, and is referred to by Yehuda Leib as his younger brother.

6. Faytel³ Reinhertz (Hirsch², Father¹ Unknown) was born Abt. 1795. He married Fruma.

Notes for Faytel Reinhertz:

Faytel appears in the tax lists for Kalvaria in 1821 and 1822 as the son of Hirsch (no surname), and in 1828 with the surname Reinhertz. He appears in the subscription list (along with 4 other Reinhertzes from Kalvaria) to the 1841 book "Toldot HaEretz" by Yosef son of Benjamin Dov Sheinhak. Yosef Sheinhak, born in Tiktin, married Esther Krakowski of Suwalk and lived there; Ester's sister Chaia married Moshe Epstein and was the mother of Ryfka Epstein who married Nathaniel Harold (Notel Hertz) Reinhertz. Faytel was still living in Kalvaria in 1865, when he appears on a list of Kalvaria Synagogue members.

Child of Faytel Reinhertz and Fruma is:

- 15 i. Hirs⁴ Reinhertz, born Abt. 1839. He married Ester; born Abt. 1837 in Raseini, Lithuania.

Notes for Hirs⁴ Reinhertz:

Hirs⁴ married Esther (surname unknown) born about 1837 in Raseini, Lithuania, and they had four known children: Arye (born 1859), Elias (1863), Fruma (1870) and Feiga (1872). This information about Hirs⁴' spouse and children comes from a portion of the Kalvaria Resident's Book found in the Central Lithuanian State Archives and published in "Landsmen," vol. 10 nos. 1-2 (June 2000). The listing for the family states that they moved to Bialystok from Kalvaria, sometime after 1872. No records for this branch of the Reinhertzes have been found in the vital records in Bialystok.

7. Abel Zacharias³ Reinhertz (Hirsch², Father¹ Unknown) was born 1814. He married Shifra Landau. She was born 1814.

More About Abel Zacharias Reinhertz:

Occupation: Merchant ("stallkeeper")

Residence: Aft. 1839, Kalvaria, Suwalki gubernia (now Lithuania)¹²

Children of Abel Reinhertz and Shifra Landau are:

- 16 i. Moshe⁴ Reinhertz, born 1831; died September 15, 1837 in Suwalki, Poland¹³.
17 ii. Henia Reinhertz, born January 14, 1836 in Suwalki, Poland¹⁴.
18 iii. Shmuel Reinhertz, born November 02, 1837 in Suwalki, Poland¹⁵.
19 iv. Freyda Gitla Reinhertz, born May 19, 1839 in Suwalki, Poland¹⁶.

Endnotes

1. Tax lists, KRSW collection, AGAD (archives for old acts), Warsaw, Poland, 1821, 1822, 1829 lists, It is assumed that the Izrael son of Hirsch who appears in several of these lists alongside other known Reinhertz sons of Hirsch is their brother. He is never listed with his surname.
2. "Ha Magid," Sept. 17 1873 issue, Obituary.
3. Suwalki Archives, Suwalki Jewish Vital Records, 1838 Marriage 16 supplementary documents.
4. Suwalki Archives, Suwalki Jewish Vital Records, As an example of how variations or errors in American records can obscure or mislead the family historian, consider Rebecca's death record in the ledgers. The county book gives her maiden name as "Abatein," while the State version - which also erroneously says she is a widow - spells it "Obatim."

6. Suwalki Archives, Suwalki Jewish Records, 1838 Marriage of Rebecca, in which she is said to be 18 years old. United States records imply she was born in 1818, but her brother Abram David was born in September of 1818 in Suwalki.
7. 1884 Census listing for Nathan, Emmet County, Petoskey, family 57, Nathan is living with Samuel Rosenthal and his family; he is said to be age 65, born in "Cywalk" and in the U.S. 2 years. No ship record has been found.
8. "HaMeasef", see the notes about Yoel, states his birth date as the 9th of Kislev, 5581.
9. "HaMeasef", see the notes for Yoel, states he died on the 4th day of Chol HaMoed, which would be the 6th day of Pesach, 5607 (i.e. the 20th of Nisan).

Descendants of Tobias Hirsch Reinhertz

Generation No. 1

1. Tobias Hirsch⁵ Reinhertz (Zacharias⁴, Leyzer³, Hirsch², Father¹ Unknown) was born 1821 in Kalvaria, Suwalki gubernia (now Lithuania). He married (1) Liba Dvora Wolberg November 1839 in Rajgrad, Poland¹, daughter of Shabtai Wolberg and Beyla. He married (2) Mary Feckel Aft. 1851.

Child of Tobias Reinhertz and Liba Wolberg is:

- + 2 i. Isaac⁶ Reinhertz, born March 1851 in Russian Poland; died June 18, 1923 in San Francisco, California.

Child of Tobias Reinhertz and Mary Feckel is:

- 3 i. Samuel⁶ Reinhertz, born 1861 in Russia. He married Sarah Friedman April 10, 1894 in New York, New York²; born 1872 in Russia.

Notes for Samuel Reinhertz:

It is assumed that Samuel's father Tobias, as cited in the marriage record, is the same person as Tobias son of Zacharias whose marriage to Liba Dvora Wolberg was recorded in 1839 in Rajgrad. Samuel states that his mother is Mary Feckel; it is of course possible that Liba Dvora died prior to 1861 and that Tobias remarried. No trace of Samuel and Sarah can be found after their marriage - neither vital records, census records or directories show that Samuel remained in Rochester, nor are they to be found in New York City vital records or in the New York State census in 1900. It is of course also possible that Samuel changed his name.

More About Samuel Reinhertz:

Residence: 1894, Rochester, New York

Generation No. 2

2. Isaac⁶ Reinhertz (Tobias Hirsch⁵, Zacharias⁴, Leyzer³, Hirsch², Father¹ Unknown) was born March 1851 in Russian Poland, and died June 18, 1923 in San Francisco, California. He married (1) Esther Freida Rosenthal. She was born Abt. 1855 in Poland³, and died February 17, 1890 in San Francisco, California⁴. He married (2) Lotta Gaba November 29, 1891 in San Francisco, California⁵. She was born Abt. 1861 in Poland, and died December 09, 1937 in San Francisco, California.

Notes for Isaac Reinhertz:

It is being assumed, without any proof, for the purpose of including this branch in this book, that Isaac Reinhertz of California was the son of Tobias Hirsch and Liba-Dvora. He could have been the son of any one of several Reinhertzes in Kalvaria, but there are no records that show the name of his father and no one in the family knows. The records from Kalvaria have never been found; there is no record of his first marriage, either because it took place overseas or was not recorded in New York; the records for marriages prior to 1905 in San Francisco were of course lost in the great earthquake, so there is no record of his second marriage; his death record shows the names of his parents as

REINHERTZ—In this city, February 7, Mrs. I. Rein-hertz, aged 31 years.

MARRIED.

REINHERTZ—GABA—In this city, November 29,
1891, by the Rev. Joseph Willner, Isaac Rein-hertz and Lotta Gabz, both of San Francisco.

unknown; and his tombstone has no Hebrew and thus provides no name for his father.

Nonetheless, it is highly likely that Isaac came from the Kalvaria Reinhertz family. The 1880 census in New York (in which he is listed as Isaac Reinhardt), the 1920 census in California, and his death record all state he was born in Poland (as does the newspaper death notice); the 1900 census in California says he was born in Russia. His first wife, according to his son Abraham's death record, was a Rosenthal; and he had a son Nathaniel.

Isaac shows up in the 1880 census in New York, as Isaac "Reinhardt" from Poland, living at 104 Delancey Street with his wife and first three children. This is consistent with Leon Rudee or Paul Reinhertz's recollection that he lived on Delancey Street. His death certificate states he was in California 42 years, which implies that he left New York about 1882; however, most records for his daughter Dora state she was born 1887 in New York. He first shows up in the San Francisco city directories in 1886-1887, although there is a listing the previous year for a Mrs. Jane Reinhertz in fancy and dry goods at 1650 Polk Street. Leon or Paul believe that he first lived in Stockton before coming to San Francisco. In 1900 and thereafter, he appears in the California censuses in San Francisco.

More About Isaac Reinhertz:

Burial: Salem Cemetery, Colma, California

Census: 1880, Living in New York⁶

Immigration: 1875, To United States⁷

Naturalization: 1886⁸

Residence: Bet. 1900 - 1920, San Francisco, California⁹

Notes for Esther Freida Rosenthal:

The death records for both Max and Abraham show their mother's maiden name as Rosenthal. In addition, Paul Reinhertz found some genealogical notes from his mother that said Isaac's first wife was Esther Rosenthal. It is highly likely that she was a descendant of the Suwalki Rosenthal family, but it has not been possible to find any records that confirm this or that indicate who her parents were.

Notes for Lotta Gaba:

Lotta was married to Henry Gaba prior to her marriage to Isaac; Henry died in 1891 and is buried next to Lotta and Isaac. Henry and Lotta had a daughter Jennie Gaba born July 3 1882 and died May 27, 1951 in Napa County. Jennie's death record shows her mother's maiden name as "Allen." She is shown in the census records as a stepdaughter to Isaac. Jennie was still living in 1947, and apparently unmarried, according to the court records concerning the dispute over the Steiner Street property.

More About Lotta Gaba:

Burial: Salem Cemetery, Colma, California

Children of Isaac Reinhertz and Esther Rosenthal are:

- + 4 i. Bertha⁷ Reinhertz, born October 12, 1875 in New York, New York; died April 14, 1955 in San Francisco, California.
- + 5 ii. Abraham Reinhertz, born 1877 in New York, New York; died July 31, 1968 in San Francisco, California.
- + 6 iii. Max I. Reinhertz, born August 1879 in New York, New York; died September 09, 1929 in San Francisco, California.
- + 7 iv. Dora Reinhertz, born Bet. May 1882 - 1887 in New York, New York; died January 31, 1960 in San Francisco, California.

FROM SUWALKI TO ST. IGNACE

Children of Isaac Reinhertz and Lotta Gaba are:

- 8 i. Nathaniel A.⁷ Reinhertz, born July 1893 in San Francisco, California.

Notes for Nathaniel A. Reinhertz:

Little seems to be known about Nathaniel by surviving members of the family, although he was clearly involved in the family's affairs in the first half of the century. At the time of his father's death in 1923, Nathaniel was the witness to the death certificate and was living at 1558 Steiner Street, next door to Isaac. When his mother Lotta died in 1937, he was appointed executor of her estate, and ten years later in a court action involving a dispute between Nathaniel and his sisters, he still owned the building on Steiner Street (Lillian Leve v. Nathaniel Reinhertz, California Findlaw website). However, he is not listed in the California death index which begins in 1950.

Notel, the Hebrew equivalent of Nathaniel, is a key name in the Reinhertz family of Kalvaria.

Notes for Paul Bettman Reinhertz:

Paul is a retired educator. One of his last positions, in the mid 1990's, was as principal of the Miraloma Elementary School in San Francisco. He has become involved with the SUFI order, a mystical religious sect with origins in India. The Sufi web site describes the order as a universal approach to spiritual growth. The Sufis recognize aspects of truth in all religious traditions, all of which are equally respected. Thus a Sufi can also be a member of a religious tradition and at the same time be a member of the Sufi order; the Sufis do not convert or "save" people, but rather hope that their teachings will deepen their members' understanding of the traditions with which they are affiliated, and encourage them to live their beliefs. Paul, known as "Hadi" in the Sufi order, is their San Francisco representative.

Descendants of Meyer Reinhertz

Generation No. 1

1. Meyer⁵ Reinhertz (Zacharias⁴, Leyzer³, Hirsch², Father¹ Unknown) was born Abt. 1844 in Kalvaria, Suwalki gubernia (now Lithuania), and died Bef. 1904 in Kalvaria, Suwalki gubernia (now Lithuania)¹. He married Eva Rosenholtz². She was born 1845³.

Notes for Eva Rosenholtz:

Eva's arrival in New York in September 1909 is documented, and she is found living with Abraham in April, 1910 in the 1910 Federal Census (as "Libby.") She returned to Kalvaria after visiting her sons in New York, according to her granddaughter Evelyn Rudenstein. Evelyn remembers being told that her grandmother came to visit before she (Evelyn) was born, stayed a short period but went back. Norman Mass remembers that his aunt Ruth was in possession for many years of a set of candelabras (since sold) that Eva brought with her on that visit.

The 1910 Census states that Libby (Eva) had 11 children, 8 of whom were living. The names and birth years of the other three are unknown; presumably they died as children.

- 3 ii. Harry Reinhard, born July 25, 1869 in Kalvaria, Suwalki Gubernia (now Lithuania)⁶; died November 23, 1953 in North Adams, Massachusetts⁷. He married Emma Warburton; born July 02, 1886 in Gloucester, New Jersey⁸; died May 21, 1958 in North Adams, Massachusetts⁹.

Notes for Harry Reinhard:

Harry was the oldest of the brothers living in the United States. He had a very successful insurance business in North Adams. Harry dropped the "t" at the end of his surname. Apparently he was already in North Adams by 1890, as city directories there from 1890 to 1893 show a Harry Reinhard (in one listing, Harry A. Reinhard) as a collector for L. Simon company, rooming or boarding at various locations. That would be consistent with a possible arrival in 1884 at the age of 17, if in fact the Hirsch Reinherz shown on the passenger list of the SS Hammonia is the same person (the name Hirsch was commonly anglicized to "Harry"), and would also be consistent with the statement in his obituary that he "worked for a short time in New York City and then came to North Adams where he accepted employment in a furniture store." (North Adams Transcript, November 23, 1953).

In 1899 Harry established the Harry Reinhard Insurance agency, which he sold in 1927 to William Geddes and Harold Crippen. Shortly thereafter, he established another agency with offices at 57½ Main Street shared with Judge Samuel E. Levine. Injuries sustained when he was struck by a car in 1946 limited his activities somewhat, but he remained in business until his death. Harry was active in the former Merchant's Association and in the Chamber of Commerce in North Adams, and was particularly well known for his service as volunteer director of the veteran's employment agency helping World War I veterans, and as a member of the North Adams Rationing board during World War 2. His obituary also notes that he was active in the charitable affairs of the Kiwanis club, was a 32nd degree Mason, and was a member of the Bnai Brith Lodge in North Adams.

More About Harry Reinhard:

Burial: United House of Israel Cemetery, Clarksburg, Massachusetts

Immigration: June 27, 1884, Arrive New York from Hamburg on SS Hammonia¹¹

Marital Status: No children

Occupation: insurance business

Residence: North Adams and Williamstown, Massachusetts

Notes for Emma Warburton:

Although Emma was a member of St. John's Episcopal Church of North Adams, she left generous amounts of money (ranging from $5000 to $15,000 each) to several Jewish institutions at her death. These included the National Jewish Hospital in Denver, Colorado; Bnai Brith Lodge of North Adams; and the United House of Israel of North Adams. Similar amounts were also bequeathed to the North Adams chapters of the Red Cross, Heart Fund, Cancer Fund, and the North Adams Hospital as well as her church and the North Adams YMCA.

- 8 vii. David Reinhardt, born 1885 in Russia.

Notes for David Reinhardt:

Evelyn Rudenstein recalled a brother of her father named David (telephone conversation, May 9, 2001); she thought David had gone west. William Reinhardt (grandson of Abraham) also recalls mention of a brother of his grandfather by that name. His existence is verified by the passenger ship manifest for his arrival in 1903 (as David Reinherz) which shows him going to his brother "L." Reinherz at the 127 Myrtle Avenue address in Brooklyn. He had apparently moved from Kalvaria to nearby Virbalis before leaving Suwalki gubernia, and was traveling with two members of the Linde family from Suwalki and Virbalis.

FROM SUWALKI TO ST. IGNACE

Immigration: September 15, 1903, Arrive New York on the SS Kaiser Wilhelm II from Bremen¹⁶

Naturalization: 1911¹⁷

Occupation: Department store salesman

- 9 viii. Saul Reinhertz. He married ?.

Notes for Saul Reinhertz:

The information about Saul comes from Norman Mass, who remembers Saul as the "black sheep" of the family. Saul set up business in Flagstaff, and Norman recalls that his uncle Myron "found" Saul during World War II. Saul was married, and at some point many years ago his wife contacted Norman on some legal matter, perhaps concerning her husband's estate.

Generation No. 2

4. Abraham⁶ Reinhardt (Meyer⁵ Reinhertz, Zacharias⁴, Leyzer³, Hirsch², Father¹ Unknown) was born 1873 in Kalvaria, Suwalki gubernia (now Lithuania)¹⁸, and died March 17, 1957 in West Orange, New Jersey. He married Lillian Solomon January 10, 1901 in New York, New York¹⁹, daughter of Bernard Solomon and Nettie Blank. She was born 1882 in New York City, and died Abt. 1948.

Notes for Abraham Reinhardt:

Abraham, who like all his brothers changed his name from Reinhertz to Reinhardt, first had a dry goods, novelties and 5 and 10 cent store in Brooklyn, at 127 Myrtle Avenue. Brooklyn real estate records show that his brother Samuel took a lease on this store in 1904. It was this store address that his brother David, in 1903, and his mother Chaie, in 1909, gave on their passenger ship manifests (using the original surname of Reinhertz). Brooklyn city directories from 1909 to 1913 show him at the Myrtle Avenue address, and in 1909 his brothers Samuel and Harry are also listed as having a business at the same address. The 1910 census shows him living nearby at 160 Cumberland Street. When he moved to Newark, he established a dry goods business there (according to the short obituary article in the New York Times on March 18, 1957, this store was opened in 1896), which eventually expanded into a chain of 15 stores throughout New Jersey, called The Reinhardt Shops. The southernmost store was in New Brunswick.

More About Abraham Reinhardt:

Census: Bet. 1910 - 1920, In 1910, at 160 Cumberland Street, Brooklyn; in 1920, living 17 Baldwin Avenue, Newark, New Jersey with his family and his brother Charles²⁰

Immigration: Bet. 1888 - 1890, To United States²¹

Naturalization: 1895²²

Occupation: retail merchant

Residence: 1901, Lawrence, Massachusetts; then Brooklyn, New York and by 1920 in Newark, New Jersey²³

Children of Abraham Reinhardt and Lillian Solomon are:

- + 10 i. Rosalind⁷ Reinhardt, born March 16, 1902; died November 18, 2001 in Basking Ridge, New Jersey.
- 11 ii. Marion Reinhardt, born October 09, 1904 in Brooklyn, New York²⁴; died Bef. 1909.

Notes for Marion Reinhardt:

Marion must have died as a child. She is not listed in the 1910 or 1920 census, and her brother Myron was named for her and their namesake, their grandfather Meyer. This is further confirmed by the 1910 census, which states that Abraham and Lillian had four children, three of whom were living in 1910.

- + 12 iii. Ruth Reinhardt, born 1907 in New York City.
- + 13 iv. Myron Reinhardt, born September 15, 1909 in New York City; died March 08, 1981 in Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

5. Samuel⁶ Reinhardt (Meyer⁵ Reinhertz, Zacharias⁴, Leyzer³, Hirsch², Father¹ Unknown) was born 1875 in Kalvaria, Suwalki gubernia (now Lithuania), and died August 03, 1953 in South Orange, New Jersey²⁵. He married Esther Viola Baum²⁶ January 08, 1907 in New York, New York²⁷, daughter of Israel Baum and Lena Crohn. She was born November 25, 1883 in New York City, and died October 14, 1967 in East Orange, New Jersey.

Notes for Samuel Reinhardt:

Samuel came to the United States at the age of 13, to his older brother Abraham, according to his daughter Evelyn. This is consistent with the 1920 census which shows that Samuel was born in 1875 and arrived in 1889. It is unclear where the brothers lived at first - Abraham states he is in Lawrence, Massachusetts in 1901 when he marries - but by 1904, Samuel had signed a lease on the store at 127 Myrtle Avenue in Brooklyn that was listed variously as a dry goods and 5 and 10 cent store under his, Abraham and/or Harry's name until at least 1913 (The lease was dated February 10, 1904 and was to be effective May 1, 1904 for one year - see Section Liber 28 page 509). By 1920, Samuel had established a retail business in East Orange, New Jersey.

Descendants of Israel Reinhertz

Generation No. 1

1. Israel⁵ Reinhertz (Nathaniel Harold⁴, Leyzer³, Hirsch², Father¹ Unknown) was born October 25, 1848 in Sudziszki, Mackow district, Suwalki gubernia, Poland¹, and died August 04, 1909 in Grand Rapids, Michigan. He married (1) Unknown Goldberg Bef. 1872, daughter of Wolf Goldberg. She died Bef. 1875. He married (2) Lena Roteroven 1875², daughter of Hirsch Roteroven and Chai Sora Epstein. She was born Abt. 1852 in Rajgrad, Poland³, and died February 27, 1915 in Petoskey, Michigan⁴.

Notes for Israel Reinhertz:

According to a small note in the Petoskey Evening News of August 9, 1909, Israel died in Grand Rapids where he was "taking treatment" for an unspecified illness. The newspaper said a "full account of his life will be published at a later date," but no such article appeared in the ensuing weeks.

Not much is known about Israel. His ship arrival or naturalization records have not been found, probably because he entered the United States from Canada or sailed from a port other than Hamburg (the census says he came in 1885, a period during which the New York port arrivals are not indexed). He was apparently living for a period in Naubinway, on the Upper Peninsula; the newspaper article describing the guests at the wedding of Moses Blumrosen and Jennie Rosenthal in Petoskey in 1888 places him there. In later years, at the time of their death, some of his children were said to have been born in Naubinway, but this is contradicted by census records and by records found in the Polish archives (see further on this under Louis).

In the 1899 and 1903 Petoskey directories, there are some conflicting entries for the Reinhertz family that suggest either a double name for Israel, a previous marriage for his son Isaac, or perhaps even the presence of Israel's brother Leib (about whom nothing else is known), although there are no census entries to support this. The proprietor of the Star Clothing Store in 1899 was L. Reinhertz, while "L. Reinhertz Jr." and I. Reinhertz were clerks at the store, and they all lived along with Mrs. L. Reinhertz, Jennie and Tina at 502 State. In 1903, the family still lives at 502 State. At this point, one Louis Reinhertz has a dry goods store at 316 Howard, and his clerks include Isaac L., Louis Jr. and Tina (Jennie is a student). In the 1911-1912 directory, when Israel is now deceased, the store at 316 Howard is called I. Reinhertz and Son, and is managed by Isaac and "Grace" Reinhertz, while Jayne, Louis and Tina are clerks at the store. All still live at 502 State with Israel's widow Lena. Although his children are buried in Petoskey, Israel was buried in Detroit (according to the small obituary article).

More About Israel Reinhertz:

Burial: Beth Olam Cemetery, Detroit

Census: 1900, Living at 502 State Street in Petoskey⁵

Immigration: 1885, to United States⁶

Notes for Unknown Goldberg:

In a list of donors from Suwalki to a fund for the relief of Persian Jews, published in "HaMagid" on June 11, 1872, is found the name of Wolf Goldberg and his son in law YIsrael Reinhertz. From this entry it is apparent that Israel was first married to this daughter of Wolf Goldberg, whose name is unknown. Vital records are missing for some years in the 1870's; evidently her marriage and subsequent death, perhaps in childbirth, took place during those years, was unrecorded, or took place elsewhere than Suwalki.

FROM SUWALKI TO ST. IGNACE

Notes for Lena Roteroven:

Lena was the fifth of nine children of Herschel and Chai Sora Roteroven of Rajgrad, a town west of Suwalki in Lomze gubernia. The Roteroven family has been extensively documented, originally by Morris Rosen of Granville, New York (1890-1983), a nephew of Leah. Subsequent detailed work was done on this family tree by the author of this book and more recently by other descendants of the family; the family tree is posted on the Internet. The Roterovens married into many wealthy and learned families in Suwalki and Lomze gubernias. Lena's mother, Chai Sora, was the daughter of Leib ben Meier Epstein Ha Levi, a Rabbi in Raczki, Suwalki gubernia in the early 19th century. Chai Sora's oldest brother Meier Hirsch of Sopotkin was a general in the Russian army and overseer of estates; another brother, Joshua, was said to have been mayor of Kalvaria (Herschel Roteroven, Leah's father, was mayor of Rajgrad for 25 years, according to Morris Rosen). Leib Epstein appears to have been a descendant of a rabbinical Epstein line of considerable yichus.

More About Lena Roteroven:

Burial: Beth Olam Cemetery, Detroit

Census: 1910, in Petoskey, Michigan⁷

Daughter of: Abram Roteroven ("Rosen" in most American documents)

Immigration: 1885, to United States⁸

Children of Israel Reinhertz and Lena Roteroven are:

- 2 i. Moshe Leyzer⁶ Reinhertz, born May 1878 in Suwalki, Poland⁹; died 1882 in Suwalki, Poland.
- 3 ii. Louis Reinhertz, born September 1879 in Russian Poland¹⁰; died November 30, 1954 in Petoskey, Michigan.

Notes for Louis Reinhertz:

In both his death record and the newspaper article describing his death, Louis is said to have been born Sept. 1, 1876 in Naubinway, Michigan. Although his family was living in Naubinway for a period in the late 1880s, there is no evidence to support their being in Michigan in the 1870s. Indeed, the Suwalki records show his brother Moshe Leyzer being born in 1878 in Suwalki (and deceased there in 1882). His younger brother, Issac M., is recorded as being born in Suwalki in 1881 (although the newspaper obituary cites Naubinway). Since his brother died in 1882 in Suwalki, it does not appear that the Reinhertzes came to the United States until at least 1882. The 1900 census gives his birthdate as September 1877 in Russian Poland, while the 1910 and 1920 census imply that he was born in 1879.

There is also the possibility that the 1882 death record for Moshe Leyzer was a fabrication, and that Louis is the same person as Moshe Leyzer. That would place Louis as being born May, 1878 in Suwalki.

Louis was associated with his brother Isaac in the clothing business; later, he operated a tire shop and was a clerk in the Liquor Control Commission store in Petoskey. The 1920 census shows him as a stockbroker. He was the oldest member in term of years of the Petoskey Elks Lodge. Louis, like nearly all his siblings, never married.

More About Louis Reinhertz:

Burial: Greenwood Cemetery, Petoskey, Michigan

Census: 1920, Living in Petoskey with his sisters Tina and Jane¹¹

Immigration: Bet. 1885 - 1897, to United States¹²

Occupation: Merchant, stockbroker

FROM SUWALKI TO ST. IGNACE

- 4 iii. Isaac M. Reinhertz, born March 1881 in Suwalki, Poland¹³; died August 21, 1950 in Petoskey, Michigan. He married Mildred Kaufman; born May 25, 1883 in Michigan¹⁴; died June 27, 1977 in San Francisco, California.

Notes for Isaac M. Reinhertz:

The Petoskey Evening News of Aug 22, 1950 describes Isaac as a prominent merchant in Petoskey. After first being associated with his father in the clothing business, Isaac operated his own stores in several locations and, in the early 1920s, opened the "I.M. Reinhertz Shop" on Howard Street. Isaac also had a shoe shop and a sporting goods shop in two locations on Lake Street. His wife actively worked with him in these stores, and according to the newspaper article "Under their direction the shops came to have a nation-wide reputation for smart, high-quality clothing and they served patrons from all over the country, both through personal shopping and by mail." The "Michigan Magazine," in an article about Isaac and his store in 1930, described him as "a most charming man of rare ability, who translated his artist's love for beautiful things into luxurious and fascinating apparel for women and men."

The newspaper obituary claims that Isaac was born in Naubinway, but in fact his birth is recorded in 1881 in Suwalki (his death certificate says Poland), and the 1900, 1910 and 1920 censuses verify that. Isaac was the only one of his siblings who married; however, he and his wife (who came from Charlevoix) had no children. After his death, Mildred married Robert Snodgrass and moved to Atlanta, GA (per Tina's obituary notice).

Occupation: Retail clothing and dry goods merchant

- 5 iv. Tina Reinhertz, born November 1882 in Russian Poland; died February 19, 1963 in Petoskey, Michigan.

Notes for Tina Reinhertz:

Tina, like most of her siblings, never married. She was associated with the Rosenthal store in Petoskey for many years, and was an active member of Bnai Israel's Sisterhood. Tina was the last of the children of Israel Reinhertz to pass away. Her age and birthplace is variously reported in the census documents and at her death. The earliest birth date, cited here, comes from the 1900 census, although that census says she was born in Michigan while her older sister Jennie was born in Russian Poland (later censuses also place Tina as being born overseas).

Prominent Merchant Succumbs

I. M. Reinhertz, widely known Petoskey retail merchant, died Monday afternoon, a day after he had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage.

Services will be held at the Peters Funeral Home at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday with burial following in Greenwood Cemetery. Albert Friedlander, student rabbi serving B'Nai Israel congregation, will have charge of the services.

Born in Nubinway, Michigan, Mr. Reinhertz was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Israel Reinhertz. The family came to Petoskey in the early days of the city and its members have been engaged in the retail clothing business here for a half century.

Originally associated with his father in a clothing store, Mr. Reinhertz operated in several locations in downtown Petoskey. In the early twenties he opened the I. M. Reinhertz Shop on Howard street. After a number of changes, the shop continues in the same location today. Mr. Reinhertz also had a shoe shop and a sport shop in Lake street locations.

I. M. REINHERTZ

Mr. Reinhertz was married to Miss Mildred Kaufman, of Charlevoix who was actively associated with him in the operation of the shops. Under their direction the shops came to have a nation-wide reputation for smart, high quality clothing and they served patrons from all over the country, both through personal shopping and by mail.

Surviving are: the wife; a brother, Louis; and two sisters, the Misses Jane and Tina Reinhertz, of Petoskey.

Active pallbearers will be: Harry D. Leviason, Homer Zipp, Edwin Balkover, Zalman Fryman, Joseph Masia and Reber Curtis. Honorary pallbearers will be: John L. A. Galster, M. I. Fryman, Glen C. Townsend and Jack Ottimer.

Louis Reinhertz, 78, Long Time Resident Here, Dies

LOUIS REINHERTZ, one of Petoskey's best known citizens, was photographed here in a familiar pose sitting in the summer sun by the Chamber of Commerce information booth.

Services for Louis Reinhertz, 78, who died this morning at Lockwood General Hospital after an illness of a month, will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. from the Peters Funeral Home.

Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Reinhertz was born Sept. 1, 1876 in Nubinway, Mich. At one time he was associated with his late brother I. M. Reinhertz, he later operated a tire shop and was a clerk in the Liquor Control Commission store here. He lived most of his life in Petoskey.

He was the oldest member of the Petoskey Elks Lodge in terms of years in the fraternal organization. He was a member of B'Nai Israel Temple.

Surviving are two sisters, Miss Tina Reinhertz and Miss Jane Reinhertz of Petoskey.

Zalman B. Fryman will be in charge of services. The body is at the Peters Funeral Home where friends may call.

Miss Reinhertz Rites Thursday

Services for Miss Tina Reinhertz, who died early Tuesday at her Town House apartment will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Stone Funeral Home. Zalman Fryman will officiate and interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Miss Reinhertz was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Reinhertz. Her father was a pioneer Petoskey businessman. She was a native of Petoskey and attended Petoskey schools.

She was associated with the S. Rosenthal and Sons store here for many years, and was an active member of B'Nai Israel Sisterhood.

Preceding her in death were two brothers, Louis and I. M. Reinhertz and a sister, Jane. Her only survivor is a sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Snodgrass (the former Mrs. Mildred Reinhertz) of Atlanta, Ga.

Descendants of Mary Reinhertz

Generation No. 1

1. Mary⁵ Reinhertz (Nathaniel Harold⁴, Leyzer³, Hirsch², Father¹ Unknown) was born March 14, 1863 in Suwalki, Poland¹, and died August 10, 1928 in Cleveland, Ohio. She married Max M. Savlan June 23, 1886 in Petoskey, Michigan². He was born February 1862 in Kaunus, Lithuania³, and died February 06, 1927 in Cleveland, Ohio⁴.

Notes for Mary Reinhertz:

Mary and Max were married in a joint celebration on the same day that Mary's sister Rachel and her husband Sam Rosenthal marked their silver wedding anniversary. A lengthy article in the Petoskey Evening News describes the event, noting that Max's brother Meyer came all the way from Russia to attend the wedding. At first Max and Mary lived in Petoskey, at 505 Michigan Street, the address shown on Rebecca's birth certificate. They ran a small store called the Petoskey Bazaar. An advertisement in the local newspaper claimed it was "The cheapest place in Emmet County to buy Ladies and Gents furnished goods, glass ware, tin ware, etc." However, in June of 1888, the newspaper notes that they had decided to remove the store to a settlement just being opened near Manistique; a week later the Evening News says they are moving to Garden, Delta County, on Garden Bay and Big Bay de Noquet, about 100 miles west of Petoskey.

The 1910 Census and her (Helen's) marriage license both state that their daughter Helen was born in 1893 in Wisconsin. But at the time of the 1895 Steinberg-Rosenthal wedding in Petoskey, the Savlans were living in Gladwin, Michigan. At an unknown later date, they must have moved back to Petoskey where they are listed in the 1900 Census. A local newspaper article reports that in January of 1901, Max suffered a fire at his store. Probably soon thereafter they moved to Cleveland, where Max's brother was living. At the time of their oldest daughter Rebecca's marriage they were living at 2400 East 38th St.

Mary moved in with her daughter Helen after Max died, but then she herself passed away just a year and a half later. An obituary notice in the Aug. 17 issue of the "Jewish Review and Observer" describes her as an active participant in Jewish affairs. She was a board member of the Jewish Center Sisterhood, and held membership in Judea, the Cleveland Hebrew School, Hadassah, the Council of Jewish Women, Orthodox Orphan Home and Orthodox Old Home. The obituary incorrectly states that she was born in Warsaw. Interestingly, two of the pallbearers were Harry Weinstein and B. Rosenthal of Detroit.

More About Mary Reinhertz:

Census: 1910, Living 2400 E. 38th St. in Cleveland (1900 in Petoskey)⁵

Hebrew name: Miriam Merka

Immigration: 1882, to United States⁶

Notes for Max M. Savlan:

Max was the Shammash at his synagogue, and may have been ordained as a Rabbi although he never practiced as such (recollections of his grandson Richard). He was active in Jewish and Zionist activities and a member of the board of directors of the Cleveland Hebrew School and Institute, the Jewish National Fund, the Cleveland Zionist District, the United Palestine Appeal, and the Mizrahi.

Max's probate papers indicate that he was both fairly successful in his career, and a generous benefactor of a number of orthodox Jewish institutions, including those he had served. His will, made out three years before his death, left a bequest of $1000 to the Cleveland Hebrew School and Institute,

A Unique and Brilliant Social Event.

Friday, June 15th, was a gala day in the comfortable home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Rosenthal, on Lake street. Two events of great interest occurred on that day: the marriage of Mr. Max Savlan to Miss Mary Reinhartz, sister of Mrs. Rosenthal, in the afternoon, and the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Rosenthal to the evening. A number of relatives and personal friends from a distance were present among whom were Mr. Nathan Reinhartz, father of the two brides, Mr. William Saulson, wife and secretary of St. Ignace, Michigan; Mr. Isaac Turmim, Alpena, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. S. Goldman, Detroit, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. Steinberg, Traverse City, Michigan; Mr. and Mrs. Yallumstein, Traverse City, Michigan; Mrs. J. Rosenzweig, Detroit, Michigan; Mrs. Wunderlich, Chicago, Ill.; Rev. Mr. Gumbel, Traverse City, Michigan; Mr. Silverman, Detroit, Michigan; Alex Rosenthal, Charlevoix, Michigan; Meyer Savlan, Berlin, and Rev. J. Rapaport, Traverse City, Michigan. Mr. Meyer Savlan, came all the way from his home in Russia especially to be present at his brother's marriage.

Owing to the large number of guests from abroad, and limited accommodations for a general party, Mr. and Mrs. Rosenthal were compelled to omit a host of friends in Petoskey from the list of invitations, to their great regret. Mrs. Minnie Gardner was present and furnished delightful music for the joyous occasion, while Miss Libbie Hill supported her friend and the young lady of the house, Miss Jennie Rosenthal. In addition to these there were only two or three of the neighboring ladies who were informally invited to witness the interesting ceremony in the afternoon.

At a little after four o'clock the bridal party took position under a canopy in the parlor, facing east, and the officiating Rabbi, Rev. J. Rapaport, of Traverse City, began the celebration in the Hebrew tongue of that marriage rite which is as old as the time of Moses, and which is the same precisely in every land, and among all the people where the children of Abraham are found. To the eye of the gentile accustomed to the direct and business like forms which the churches have largely taken from the civil marriage contract, the spectacle of a Hebrew wedding is a striking and peculiar ceremony. As the service is wholly in the Hebrew language doubtless much of its beauty is lost, but enough is seen, if not heard, to show that it is full of symbolism; and certainly when one looks upon the trembling bride, and then thinks that so stood Bathsheba, for whom David sinned and suffered, and so stood the virgin Mary by the side of Joseph as they listened to the same solemn words, and performed their part in precisely the same ceremony, one fails not, gentle though he be, to be deeply impressed by it. After the performance of the rite and the exchange of congratulations, the tables containing the presents were uncovered for inspection. We have no space for a list embracing all the smaller articles, but give those of larger value:

To Mr. and Mrs. Savlan, from Nathan Reinhartz, $50 in greenbacks, set solid silver table spoons, set solid silver forks, set solid silver cups. From Mr. and Mrs. S. Rosenthal, $40 in greenbacks and other valuable articles. From Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Saulson, of St. Ignace, $50 in greenbacks and other valuable articles. From Alex and Jennie Rosenthal, complete dinner and tea sets of gold band china. Handsome table cover from Israel Reinhartz. From Mr. and Mrs. J. Steinberg, of Traverse City, silver cake dish and framed picture. From Mr. Turmim, of Alpena, silver, and cut glass fruit dish. From Mr. and Mrs. S. Goldman, set silver knives and forks. From Mrs. Wunderlich, of Chicago, twin pickle castors silver and glass. From Mr. and Mrs. Yallumstein, silver cake dish. From Mr. and Mrs. Rosenzweig, of Detroit, elegant berry dish, silver and glass. From Charlie Rosenthal, fine linen napkins. From Libbie Hill, silver napkin ring. From J. Bloomrosen, of Texas, silver jewelry case lined with red plush. From Mr. and Mrs. Rebofsky, of Bay City, ivory handled carving set.

The presents to Mr. and Mrs. Rosenthal were as follows: From Alex and Jennie Rosenthal, an elegant and expensive silver water set. From Mr. and Mrs. William Saulson, St. Ignace, solid silver coffee set. From Mr. and Mrs. Max Savlan, Petoskey, silver cake dish. From Mr. and Mrs. Rosenzweig, Detroit, silver napkin stands. From Mr. Turmim, Alpena, set solid silver tea spoons. From Mr. and Mrs. Wunderlich, Chicago, silver card receiver. From Mr. and Mrs. Yallumstein, Traverse City, silver water pitcher. From Mr. and Mrs. Goldman, Detroit, silver sugar bowl and spoons. From Nathan Reinhartz, two solid silver candle sticks, set solid silver table spoons. From Mr. and Mrs. J. Steinberg, Traverse City, silver tea set. From Libbie Hill, elegant basket of moss and flowers. From Mrs. Minnie Gardner, hand painted cushion. From Rev. J. L. Blumgarten, Detroit, engrossed epithalamium in Hebrew, in form of an acrostic in heavy gold frame. From Mr. and Mrs. Rebofsky, of Bay City, silver soup spoon in morocco lined case.

MAX SAVLAN, PROMINENT IN ZIONIST ACTIVITIES DIES AT SIXTY-FOUR

Max Savlan, long a leader in Cleveland Zionist and Jewish educational activities, passed away on Sunday, Feb. 6, at his home, 788 E. 105th street. Mr. Savlan was sixty-four years of age, and came to Cleveland twenty years ago from Kovno, Lithuania. He was a member of the board of directors of the Cleveland Hebrew School and Institute, the Jewish National Fund, the Cleveland Zionist District, the United Palestine Appeal and the Mizrahi. Mr. Savlan was particularly interested in Jewish education and the up-building of Palestine.

Funeral services were conducted at Deutsch's Chapel on Monday, Feb. 7. On the way to the Jewish Center Cemetery in Lakewood, the procession stopped at the Jewish Center, where Mr. Savlan was reader of the scrolls during the last years. The members of the board of trustees of the Jewish Center there paid their last honors to the deceased. Rabbi Solomon Goldman, in his funeral oration, held up the life of Max Savlan as an example of the wholehearted and sincere devotion of a man to the social and cultural needs of his community.

Mr. Savlan is survived by his wife, Mary; his daughters, Mrs. Sam Morris and Mrs. Sam Rose; a son, Julius, Minneapolis; also a brother, Meyer Savlan, and a sister, Mrs. Philip Goetz.

Children of Mary Reinhertz and Max Savlan are:

- + 2 i. Rebeccah⁶ Savlan, born April 20, 1887 in Petoskey, Michigan; died January 19, 1946 in Cleveland, Ohio.
- + 3 ii. Jack (Julius W.) Savlan, born May 07, 1888 in Petoskey, Michigan; died April 25, 1941 in Los Angeles, California.
- 4 iii. Florence R. Savlan, born July 25, 1891 in Manistique, Michigan⁹; died 1906¹⁰.

Notes for Florence R. Savlan:

Florence was alive at the time of the 1900 Census, but had passed away by 1910. Bertha Blumrosen Saulson's date book gives 1906 as the year of death. Florence's untimely death, according to Wilma Solkoff, was due to an accident involving the throwing of an ice laden or rocky snowball that probably triggered a congenital brain tumor condition.

More About Florence R. Savlan:

5. Helen D.⁶ Savlan (Mary⁵ Reinhertz, Nathaniel Harold⁴, Leyzer³, Hirsch², Father¹ Unknown) was born November 25, 1893 in Schofield?, Wisconsin²⁰, and died February 23, 1947 in Cleveland, Ohio. She married Samuel L. Rose March 1915 in Cleveland, Ohio²¹, son of Joseph Rose and Rosa Newman. He was born July 04, 1892 in Cleveland, Ohio, and died December 13, 1963 in Palm Beach, Florida.

Notes for Helen D. Savlan:

Helen joined her husband in a family run furniture business that still exists at the close of the 20th century. First known as Rose Sales, later as S. Rose and Company and currently as S. Rose and Sons, the Cleveland based company sells office supplies and furniture. The firm was incorporated in 1913. In the 1930's, Sam was President and Treasurer, and Helen was Vice President. By the 1950's, Sam had moved to Miami, and his sons were running the business. Today, his grandsons continue to operate the store.

He married Lucile Tabak 1940 in Cleveland, Ohio, daughter of Max Tabak and Freda Moskovitz. She was born February 24, 1920 in Cleveland, Ohio.

Notes for Robert W. Rose:

Robert spent a year at the University of Southern California and a year at Ohio State, then went into business with Richard, at the family store. His untimely death was due to a coronary suffered at a skating rink.

More About Robert W. Rose:

Burial: Mayfield Cemetery, Cleveland Heights, Ohio

Education: USC, Ohio State

Occupation: Furniture Sales

Notes for Lucile Tabak:

After Robert's death, Lucile became a licensed broker on the New York Stock Exchange. From 1971 to 1974 she was the publisher of the Euclid News Journal, a weekly newspaper in Ohio. During World War II she was a draftsman. Lucile has been active in Jewish affairs, serving as Secretary of the Jewish Museum in New York, President of the Cleveland Brandeis University Womens Association and Chairman for the Cleveland Womens Division United Jewish Appeal. She also was Treasurer of the Womens Committee of the Cleveland Symphony, and is presently a member of the United States Information Agency Arts Committee.

On August 10, 1960 she remarried Harry H. Stone (born May 21, 1917 in Cleveland). The original family name was Sapirstein, and they came from Grajewo, Poland in Lomza gubernia, a short distance west of Suwalki. This may be the same family as the Steinsapirs from Rajgrad, a few kilometers east of Grajewo (which in turn was actually a branch of the Roterosen family of Rajgrad), although Harry's brother Irving states that their father was born in Bialystok (see "The Bialystoker Memorial Book," p. 175). Harry's family established the American Greeting Card Company. Harry was an executive with the company for over 40 years, holding positions of vice president and executive vice president, director and vice chairman of the board. In the 1960's he also served in several positions with the U.S. Departments of State and Commerce: as a member of the official mission to India and Nepal in 1965, as a consultant, and as an advisor on the U.S. delegation to the 24th session of the United Nations Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East (1968). Harry has served as a consultant to the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Council on the Arts, and as treasurer of the Criminal Justice Coordinating Council. He is a trustee emeritus of Brandeis University.

In the 1980's Harry became President of the Courtland Group, Inc., a real estate investment company with offices in Cleveland.

5. 1910 Census listing for Max Savlan and family, 1910 ED 203 family 257; 1900 Emmet Co. Michigan ED 89 page 6 line 43, Max is listed in 1910 as a retail merchandiser with a general store, and in 1900 as the proprietor of a dry goods store. In 1900 Mary is listed as Marion M.
6. 1910 Census listing for Max Savlan and family, both Max and Mary are said to have come in 1882 (implying that Mary came with her father).
7. 1900 Census listing for Max Savlan and family.
8. 1910 Census for Max Savlan and family, ED 203 family 257, They were living at 2400 E. 38th St., Cleveland.
9. 1900 Census listing for Max Savlan and family, The actual date of July 25 is from Jenny Rosenthal Blumrosen's date book.
10. Date book kept by Jenny Rosenthal Blumrosen in possession of Shirley Mersky.
11. 1900 Census listing for Max Savlan and family, with exact date provided by Wilma Solkoff. Jennie Rosenthal Blumrosen's birthday book (owned by her granddaughter Shirley Mersky) lists the date as April 14 instead of April 20.
12. Marriage record for Rebecca Savlan and Samuel H. Morris, Cuyahoga County vol. 77 p. 177 application 71706, Jan. 5 1911, both Rebecca and Helen were married by Rabbi Margolis.
13. Florida Death Index and Cleveland Death notice.
14. In the census he is listed as "Julian."
15. 1900 Census listing for Max Savlan and family, which gives 1889 as the birth year. The actual date of May 7 is from Jenny Rosenthal Blumrosen's date book. His marriage license in 1910 states he is 25 years old, but that is inconsistent with the date of his parent's marriage.
16. California Death Index, As Jacob Savlan.
17. Census records list her as "Jennie." Her surname is also found spelled "Blyweiss" and "Blywise" in various records.
18. Marriage record for Julius Savlan and Jeanette Bleiweiss, Cuyahoga County, Ohio vol. 74 p. 499 application 66993, April 8, 1910.
19. Marriage record for Julius Savlan and Jeanette Bleiweiss, The California Death index lists the year of birth as 1883 and the 1910 census says she is 25 years old. Another source implies she was born 1890.
20. Marriage record for Helen Savlan and Sam L. Rose, as well as the 1910 and 1920 census listings for her parents. The census states she was born in Wisconsin, while the marriage license gives a specific town. The latter is poorly microfilmed or copied, the town looks like "Hilfield" but there is no town with a name like that in Wisconsin. There is a Hatfield, and Schofield is just outside Wausau. Wilma Solkoff believed that Helen was born in Manistique. The 1900 census give 1892 as the birth year, and the marriage license confirms that.
